Nature Group Presents to the FPSO Vessel Conference, London, UK

Nature Group PLC (AIM: NGR), a leader for drilling and produced water waste solutions in the Oil and Gas Industry is pleased to announce that it will present its technologies, solutions and future outlook for liquid wastes handled on FPSO's (floating production, storage and offloading unit) at the FPSO Vessel Conference to be held in London on March 7 & 8.

Stig Ovar Keller, director of Nature Oil & Gas AS, is one of the world renowned experts in the treatment of complex waste generated by the upstream oil- and gas industry and will present Nature Group's solutions to an audience of key decision makers in the industry and will participate in the panel discussion.

Nature Group has a range of solutions for on-site treatment of oil based (drilling) waste, off-spec produced waters and waters from cleaning operations. Nature Group's Compact Treatment Units have enabled a paradigm shift in the industry with an environmental friendly solution at a fraction of the costs of shipping the waste ashore. The treatment of over 300,000 Bbls onboard a FPSO offshore Brasil will be used as a showcase. Its ability to process the oil and waters in such a way that the majority of crude can be recovered and the water discharged to sea meeting the zero discharge criteria. The Nature technology approach to this market seems to be a game changer in the industry with significant cost saving potential for our clients.
